Get Smart

Steve Carell coasts through a kooky flick

In this action-comedy inspired by the '60s TV series, earnest spy Maxwell Smart (Steve Carell) teams up with — and tries to romance — aloof Agent 99 (Anne Hathaway). Their mission? Together with suave Agent 23 (Dwayne Johnson, a.k.a. The Rock), the duo must bring down an evil syndicate and save L.A. from an atomic bomb. While Carell charms as an idiot savant with a cache of cool gadgets (like a Swiss Army knife that's also a flame-thrower), the film's filled with implausible stunts and repetitive gags. Plus, Carell and Hathaway seem less like romantic sparring partners and more like a bickering brother and sister. (Or maybe father and daughter, given that in real life, he's 44 and she's 25.) Overall, Smart's rather silly. BRADLEY JACOBS

While Carell (right) shares kisses with Hathaway, watch for his same-sex liplock with Johnson!
