

"They are ecstatic!" an insider says of the couple (in November, when Jolie was three months pregnant). "They have always wanted this in their lives. It's wonderful."

Angelina's Ex Chats With Us About the Pregnancy

Jolie's former flame, model Jenny Shimizu, opens up about the big baby bombshell

Just last December, Jolie's ex, Jenny Shimizu, 38 (right), was warning Pitt that his new love would never settle down. ("She's not going to be a housewife," the former Calvin Klein model said at the time.) Now that the lovebirds are expecting a little one, has she changed her tune? Us caught up with the star of Q Television Network's upcoming reality show Full Throttle With Jenny Shimizu at the Sundance Film Festival. So, Angelina is having a baby . . . She's pregnant? That's strange. Someone's cheating on me! [laughs] What's your reaction? She's so open and giving. But for her to settle down and have kids of her own is a huge step. Why do you think she finally decided to have a biological child? She adopted ones who needed to be adopted. And now she wants more kids, so she's having her own. She does what she wants and she lives her life freely. I think that's why she's such a huge role model.

Brad's Rocky Landing

Drama on the runway! On January 20, wannabe pilot Pitt had quite an air scare during flying lessons at the Santa Monica, California, airport. "The wind had picked up, and when he tried to land, he bounced halfway down the runway," says an eyewitness. "Then he made a quick left, and came within feet of colliding with another plane. We were all screaming." Back on land, a chagrined Pitt pretended to wipe sweat from his brow. Phew!
